Wagner Gourmet Foods, Inc. Celebrates 150-year Anniversary

WILMINGTON, N.C. — This year, Wagner Gourmet Foods, Inc. celebrates its 150-year anniversary as a purveyor of fine foods. From the docks of Philadelphia, in 1847, John Wagner & Sons began distributing quality products, including fine Cuban cigars, premium French and Spanish wines, and spices and seasonings from the East. Today, Wagner Gourmet Foods, Inc. offers specialty teas, spices, extracts, preserves and jellies, fruit spreads, ice cream sauces, mustards and mustard dips, cocoa and coffee powders, rice, and a variety of imported and domestic candies, cookies, biscuits and shortbreads to wholesalers nationwide. In this anniversary year, the company is revealing a package redesign for several products and is introducing some exciting new items, including Wagner's English Style Scone Mix, Duck Puddle Farm Mustard Dips, and French Vanilla-flavored tea in both loose and bag form. In addition, Wagner celebrates its 150-year anniversary by offering a limited edition, commemorative tea tin featuring one of the ships that first brought Wagner & Sons quality products to the Philadelphia docks.

June 29 through July 2, the company will participate in the 43rd Annual International Fancy Food and Confection Show at the Javits Convention Center in New York City where the company will showcase its current and new product lines in a 20- by 30-foot replica of a clipper ship.
